Annual Meeting for IRCs 2015 in Corfu

Pre-Conference Seminar 2<sup>1</sup>- FULL SCORE Project

The Next Level of Internationalization: From Mobility to International Careers

New demands and developments are changing the role of the international offices these years. As the international dimension is becoming a natural and integrated part of most academies, new challenges and possibilities are lining up and the connection between mobility and international careers seems stronger than ever. The seminar will focus on 4 groups of challenges/possibilities which international offices and officers somehow will have to face in order to prepare students for their international careers:

1. Mobility and Networking: how can we deal, as IRCs, with the increasing and globalized mobility opportunities – which open up for truly global possibilities for young musicians – and the consequent need for global networks? Which are the new possibilities offered by Erasmus + (international credit mobility and capacity building)? How does this impact on students recruitment?
2. New technologies, distance learning and the “e-learning revolution”: how does all this affect the daily life of the international office and the music education job market? Threats and possibilities will be discussed
3. Entrepreneurship/Employability is everywhere! There is no application or new project without the “E-words”! How does this affect the daily life of international offices? How do we make sure that entrepreneurship and internationalization go hand in hand towards the development of international careers of music students? How can new Erasmus possibilities help supporting these goals?
4. Curriculum Development/ Mindset of institutions. How are internationalization and curriculum development related – and how can international offices help facilitating a flexible, international, entrepreneurial and open attitude and mindset of our institutions and consequently of future young musicians? Concepts like mobility windows, anchorage of internationalization, institutional development and benchmarking would be discussed
